BAT CHAT:

GETTING TO KNOW OUR MOST MISUNDERSTOOD ALLIES

Bats have occupied our planet for fifty million years yet we have only seriously studied them over the last six decades! Through Q&A, a brief PowerPoint presentation, and (WITH LUCK) the help of a live Big Brown, we'll explore biology, ecology, sonar, and cultural highs and lows of these extraordinary creatures.

Gerri Griswold is Director of Administration and Development at The White Memorial Conservation Center in Litchfield. She has handled bats for twenty years as a wildlife rehabilitator and educator and is licensed by the Connecticut Department of Environmental Protection and the United States Department of Agriculture to keep and exhibit non-releasable bats for education.
